Flowers in Profusion.

Many beautiful flowers have been received at the Harrison home and each hour brings additional offerings of this character, and downstairs the air is heavy with the aroma of blossoms. One of the most striking of these offerings is a large jardiniere of magnificent American beauty roses in the front parlor. Along with these costly products of the hothouse have come humble offerings or roses and carnations from poor persons.

PRESIDENT WILL ATTEND.

Proclamation by McKinley Announcing Death of Harrison

Washington, D. C., March 14.—The president this morning issued a proclamation announcing the death of Benjamin Harrison. "In his death" says the president, "the country is deprived of one of its greatest citizens: A brilliant soldier in young manhood, he gained fame and rapid advancement by his energy and valor. As a lawyer he arose to be a leader at the bar. In the senate he at once took and retained high rank as an orator and legislator, and in the high office of president he displayed extraordinary gifts as an administrator and statesman. In public and private life he set a shining example to his countrymen.

In testimony of respect to his memory held by the people of these United States I do hereby direct the flags of the executive mansion and the department buildings to be displayed at half mast for thirty days and that suitable military honors be rendered on the day of the funeral."

In accordance all of the flags on the public buildings at Washington were lowered at half mast.

The president, Mrs. McKinley, Secretary Cortlyou and Dr. Rixy leave at seven thirty this evening for Indianapolis to attend the funeral.

THE OLD STORY OF DRINK AND POVERTY

Canal, Dover, O., March 14.—Sitting on the edge of the bed early this morning George Weaver, a truck man in the local mills, smoothed back the hair from his wife's temple and placed a revolver at her head and fired. The bullet spattered the brains and blood over new born twin babies. Then Weaver discharged another ball into his own head with fatal results. The old story of drink and poverty. Eight children were left without support.

ROBBERS MAKE A STUBBORN FIGHT

Yield to 400 Armed Men at Farmington, Mich., After Being Nearly Shot to Pieces.

Farmington, Mich., March 14.—Three burglars for whom a posse hunted all morning were captured in Joe Francis' woods, three miles west of this village shortly after one o'clock this afternoon. They give their names as John Taylor, "Jim" Williamson and George Smith. They were in a badly used up condition. Williamson had been shot through the back, head and one elbow. Smith was wounded in the back and legs and Taylor in the face and legs. The trio made a desperate resistance and only surrendered when they became exhausted. The chase was kept up relentlessly by the big posse. The burglars were tracked from cover to cover and every time a member of the posse got within range he let go with a rifle, shotgun or revolver. Finally the thieves took refuge in the Francis woods. Their pursuers who by this time numbered 400, were quickly gathered and a constant fusade was kept up, the firing being indiscriminate. The hunted men were game and kept their revolvers working constantly.

Finally there was no response to the shots that were being fired by the posse. Then a white flag was shown.

The wildest excitement prevailed when the captured men were brought into the village. More than $1,000 shots had been exchanged between the posse and the burglars. It is not known how seriously wounded the men are. Some of their wounds were made by fine shot and others by bullets.

RECEPTION IN HONOR OF WILBUR F. CARLEA BRILLIANT SUCCESS AT MA
SONIC HALL LAST NIGHT.

Festivities of the Evening Began with a Banquet—Speeches and Congratulations Followed the Feast—Finally Came a Social Session with Literary and Musical Features.

Of all the enjoyable gatherings in which the Eastern Star members have participated none was ever a more gratifying success than the reception given by the local chapter last evening at Masonic hall. The reception was given in honor of Wilbur F. Carle, past worthy patron of the Janesville chapter, who was recently elected worthy grand patron of the order for Wisconsin.

The festivities of the evening began with a banquet at 6:30 o'clock and, in spite of the disagreeable weather fully 120 people were present. The feast of appetizing eatables was served at three long tables which were handsomely decorated with palms and cinereris, the flower pots being covered with tissue paper.

The great clusters of the starry blossoms corresponded in color as closely as possible to the points of the star which is the emblem of the order. The star points were still further represented by blue, yellow, white, green and red tissue paper baskets which were placed at the plates and in which the potato chips were served.

These effective decorations together with the array of attractively arranged and daintily garnished viands appealed directly and irresistibly to both the sense of sight and taste, a combination necessary to the complete success of any spread.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Merritt had charge of the supper and were ably assisted by a committee of ladies representing each ward in the city. The committee consisted of Mrs. Charles Evans, Miss Sue Hutchinson, Mrs. Fred Howe, Mrs. Reuben Yeomans and Mrs. John Evans. The work of preparation had been done efficiently and the committee was complimented highly, the supper being voted the best one ever served in Masonic hall. The following was the menu:

Escaloped Oysters Potato Chips
Olives Pressed Chicken Pickles
Bread and Butter Deviled Eggs
Lemon Jelly Salads
Coffee Assorted Cake
Ice Cream

After the banquet the feasters repaired to the lodge room in a jolly mood and held a most enjoyable session of the order. Mrs. H. L. McNamara, worthy matron, presided and the evening's pleasure was increased by several brief addresses.

Worthy Grand Patron L. F. Carle voiced his appreciation of the honor done him by the home chapter. He could not help but feel a little bit proud when in Milwaukee the grand chapter gave him its almost unanimous vote, he receiving 315 of 324 votes and when he returned to find Janesville chapter as rejoiced over the honor paid him as he himself was it greatly increased his pride and pleasure. If ever he was inclined to the swelled head it was on the present occasion.

The other speakers were Mrs. Belle W. Bliss of Baraboo, worthy grand matron for Wisconsin; Miss Annie Phillips of Mineral Point, past worthy grand matron; Mrs. Charles Sherwood of Madison; A. E. Matheson and D. D. Mayne. The remarks were all of a happy nature and gave opportunity for many delicate compliments to Mr. Carle.

At the close of the regular meeting the social session was enjoyed. Mrs. Charles Sanborn had charge of this part of the evening's program which was necessarily of a brief nature.

Miss Fannie Rumrill opened the social program with a recitation so prettily given that she was obliged to respond to an encore. Great amusement was occasioned by the pantomime illustration of a story of a maiden's troubles with a number of impetuous lovers. The story was read by Mrs. J. L. Fletcher. W. W. Wills exhibited a number of stereopticon views and music by a large phonograph was one of the enjoyable features.

Although the hour was late by this time those present lingered for social conversation and part of the company passed a little while pleasantly at card playing. When goodnights were finally said it was with an evident reluctance that spoke eloquently of the pleasure which had been derived from the occasion.

MILWAUKEE ROAD EXTENSION. The Milwaukee management has decided on several new lines and ex-

The company has just purchased the Milwaukee and Superior line, extending from Granville to North Lake, Wis., a distance of twenty miles.

cates, it is a play that will be of particular interest to Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors.

That last Sunday's storm wrought havoc with the telegraph system was evidenced by the fact that Western Iowa has been sending Chicago messages via Afton, and that messages between Chicago and Milwaukee have also been coming this way. Operator Seales had a busy day of it Sunday as all the wires but one were down south of Afton, making it necessary for him to receive all messages from the west and transmit them over this lone wire on south. The telephone service was likewise crippled, all the phones on the toll line being cut off from the central office at Clinton.

Afton is proud of the fact that Janesville, the metropolis of Rock county, and Rockford, the metropolis of the Rock river valley are to be benefited by the splendid generosity of Andrew Carnegie in so substantial a manner. Janesville, especially, is to be congratulated on the prosperous outlook for the coming season, for with the new government building, public library, St. Paul depot and Soldiers' monument, in addition to many other building enterprises of lesser importance, her prospects for a busy year are indeed bright.

Owing to the severity of the storm no services were held at the Baptist church last Sunday.

The Royal Neighbors will meet next Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. U. G. Waite.

George Walters returned Tuesday from a visit with relatives at Johnson's Creek.

The Modern Woodmen will meet in regular session next Saturday evening.

LIBRARY BOARD MAY HAVE CHARGE

Nothing Can Be Done Until Mr. Andrew Carnegie's $30,00 Proposition is Received Officially.

The matter of the site for the Carnegie library seems to be as much of a bone of contention in Rockford as in Janesville. Rockford recently received the conditional offer of $60,000 from Mr. Carnegie, and at the meeting of the Rockford council on Monday evening the mayor and city clerk were instructed to frame in proper language the gratitude of the city for the gift and forward the official document to the great philanthropist.

The resolution to this effect brought out a lengthy discussion on the matter of a site. The mayor advocated the raising of $15,000 for the site by public subscription and this was opposed by one of the aldermen who thought that the city should pay for the site by taxation and that its location should be settled by a vote of the people. Another alderman thought the library should be erected on land already owned by the city.

Several definite sites were proposed and the heated discussion which ensued was only brought to an end when corporation counsel McEvoy looked up the statutes and found that the library directors were practically the whole thing when it came to the matter of location and other details and all the council had to say about was to endorse what the board did.

Mayor Brunson is in accord with this and thinks the library board the proper center of authority. The result of the discussion in the Rockford council is of special interest to us, for a similar one is brewing in this city. Business men are even now conjecturing as to the administration of the library fund and it seems to be the consensus of opinion that the library board should have charge of the site selection and the erection of the building. The public sentiment seems to be in favor of this course as the most judicious and think the work should be conducted along the same line as governed the erection of the high school building. In that instance all the details were in the hands of the board of education, the accepted plans being submitted to the city council for approval. Naturally members of the library board are best posted on library needs and therefore best fitted to serve as the city's executive committee in the matter.

It is difficult to foresee the exact course of action until more definite knowledge concerning Mr. Carnegie's gift is secured. Mayor Richardson thinks that an official notification together with some form of a contract will be received by the city from Mr. Carnegie in the near future.

FOR WEEKS FILIPINO PRISONER

Illinois Man Has Numerous Escapes and Captures.

San Francisco, Cal., March 14.—John L. Fox, a private of company A, 30th volunteer infantry, who returned with his regiment yesterday on the transport Hancock from Manila, spent half the time in the Philippines as a prisoner in the hands of the Filipinos. From Jan. 18, 1899, until the 1st of September of the same year, young Fox was held by the semi-barbarous natives in mountain fastnesses, with no knowledge of his whereabouts nor of the intentions of his captors concerning his own disposition. He escaped several times, only to be captured again and threatened with summary punishment if he again attempted to get away. He had reason to believe that the threat might be carried out, for a fellow prisoner named John Kenney, from Illinois, also a private of the 30th, was deliberately shot by the Filipinos for attempting to escape.

Private Fox is from Woodlawn, Ill., and served in Cuba before going to the Philippines. On Jan. 18, 1899, fifty men, comprising a pony train, were suddenly surrounded by a large number of armed Filipinos at the mouth of a ravine near Santiago hill in the southern Luzon. Most of the men fought their way out, but Fox, Fred Mason of Company C, Corporal Bonham and Private Miller of the 37th regiment, Private Charles Worthington of Company C and Private Edward Walls of company B of the 30th were captured by the enemy. They were released by Gen. Gaillius and turned over to the Americans at Santa Cruz seven months after their capture.

30TH IS HOME FROM MANILA.

The Volunteer Regiment Reaches San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., March 14.—The transport Hancock, bearing the Thirtieth volunteer infantry, made up almost wholly of men from Illinois and Michigan, reached port today, 23 days from Manila.

Among the cabin passengers was Brigadier General James R. Campbell, who returned to San Francisco to await orders. Campbell is the former Democratic congressman from the Twentieth Illinois District, who, after reorganizing the Ninth Illinois regiment for service in Cuba, resigned his seat in congress and has since been a staunch upholder of the policy of the administration.

When the Thirtieth United States volunteers was organized he was made a lieutenant colonel, and when he went away to the war in Luzon the regiment that went with him included 350 men who had served under him in the Ninth Illinois. Last January he was appointed as brigadier general of volunteers.

The Thirtieth, as it came back, is made up of twenty-six officers and 738 men. Thirteen hundred men sailed away with the regiment, but over one hundred died from wounds and disease, many were sent home because of disability incurred in the service, and many others remained in the Philippines, some to go into business, and Idring the International exposition on the Niagara frontier.

BELOIT AND JANESEVILLE.

The Line City and the Bower City have so many interests in common, that the best of feeling has always existed, and these conditions will continue as they most certainly should. Beloit has prospered in a marked degree, because of the enterprise and energy of her citizens. The discussion just now going on about a street railway franchise, and the interest displayed, is perfectly natural, and that some opposition should develop, is just as natural. All cities have similar experiences with first franchises of this class.

There is one thing, however, that Beloit should not overlook, and that is, that interurban lines are one of the prominent factors in this era of unparalleled progress. They have come to stay, and their development is regarded as a blessing to the country. If the promoters of the Rockford, Delavan Lake and Janesville line are satisfied that the investment is a good one, the line will undoubtedly be built. They very naturally want to run through the city of Beloit, but they can run outside the limits if necessary. In that event Beloit would gain nothing.

Mr. Salmon's argument may express public sentiment, although it sounds weak to people not directly interested. He says that the council proposes to study conditions in other cities similarly located, and see whether they have been benefitted or retarded.

Beloit, with a population almost as large as Janesville, and with as good or even better outlook for the future, is certainly able to stand alone. The city will demand a local street car service within five years and Beloit capital will undoubtedly supply it. The interurban line, now under discussion, is part of a southern Wisconsin system. It contemplates Madison as a terminal in the near future, and Janesville will be a way station the same as Beloit. It is not interested in the urban system, except as it contributes to the through service. One of the promoters said of the Janesville line, "If the company will give us right of way and the use of their tracks from the foot of Main street, where we enter the city, to the Myers house corner, we will furnish power to run their entire system." Beloit had better organize a local company and secure a similar proposition. It would be a good investment for capital, and a great convenience to the city. This adylic is all gratuitous, and offered with the best of feeling toward the enterprising state line city. Janesville people would like an opportunity to visit Beloit often, and catch a little of the enthusiasm for which the city is noted. They will patronize Mr. Salmon's drinking fountains freely, and occasionally buy a bottle of pop. If Bort, Bailey & Co. will carry a better line, of goods than they do in Janesville, the interurban line will increase their Beloit trade. The state line people can come up and see us raise pickles for the new canning factory, and we will go down and see them make wine mills and college graduates. The dawn of the millennium will be just over the hill, and everybody will be happy when the interurban line is ready for business.

SENATOR JOHN C. SPOONER.
The Gazette has always been a great admirer, and a strong supporter of John C. Spooner. The paper recognizes the fact, as do many papers throughout the state, that Mr. Spooner is one of the few great statesmen of the day. It is also aware that public sentiment awards him the same strong endorsement. These facts were very apparent when his letter of last summer was published stating that he would not be a candidate for reelection. That letter came as a great surprise, and republican sentiment throughout the state, expressed, not only regret, but an earnest desire to have him reconsider his determination. These honest expressions were not confined to any faction of the party, but were so universal that it was evident to the most casual observer that Senator Spooner occupied a place in the hearts of the people, second to no man in the state. The reason given by Mr. Spooner for his action was plausible, but many people were not willing to regard it as a sufficient reason why the state should be deprived of his very efficient services. They believed that other causes of a political nature influenced his action, and while they were at a loss to divine these causes, they were nevertheless persistent in the belief.

Public opinion is sometimes wrong, but this is the exception and not the rule. It was right in this instance, and while the facts may never be published, it is safe to say that public sentiment has been so aroused and crystallized, that the senator will have no doubt about his popularity in the state, when the time comes to elect his successor.

An Oshkosh gentleman, who recently returned from the east, says that Senator Spooner is regarded as the most available candidate for president in 1904. His name has been frequently mentioned of late in this connection, and this is another good reason why he should be returned to the senate. Wisconsin has occasion to be proud of Senator Spooner. He has been an honor to the state, and will honor the nation as its chief executive, if elevated to that responsible position.

WHO PAYS THE FREIGHT?

The railroad tax bills under discussion at Madison, suggest the question, "Who pays the freight?" and to this question there is only one answer—The people. The taxes of a railroad, like the taxes of any other business, are a part of the operating expenses.

There are a number of prominent items that enter into the cost of railroad transportation, and taxes is one of them. They are one of the easiest items to figure because they are uniform. They are not subject to competition, because all roads pay practically the same rate. If it costs the railroads doing business in Wisconsin $600,000 more for the privilege this year than it did last, Wisconsin shippers will pay most of the advance, and Wisconsin consumers in the end will pay the freight. It's simply another way of "beating the devil around the bush." Railroads, of course, oppose the measure, because they feel that Wisconsin is now paying all the freight tariff that the people should pay, but when attorneys for the road go before the committee and state that Wisconsin taxes are higher today than any other state where their companies do business, it is very easy to read between the lines, what the statement means if the burden is increased.

It is undoubtedly easier to assess and collect taxes of a railroad than of any other class of property, because they are easy to reach, and they do a strictly cash business. It does not follow, however, that it is always wise to keep these corporations on the gridiron at every session of the legislature. A few cents per hundred added to the tariff on coal and groceries will pay the $600,000 additional tax and the man who burns the coal and consumes the groceries pays the freight. He may not complain, because unconscious of the mild imposition, but it is there just the same. This is one of the laws that govern business, both corporate and individual.

The other side of the question is very plain to read. If Wisconsin, by unjust legislation, discriminates against her own interests, and compels the railroads to pay a heavier tariff than in neighboring states, she simply closes an avenue of progress that means stagnation to business enterprises. The legislature can afford to think twice before acting, and digest, among other things, the question of, "Who pays the freight?"

The enterprising young men at Purcell, Indian Territory, who attempted to marry off the Indian maidens at ten cents per head, found the scheme a failure, because they failed to get the consent of the girls before going into the enterprise, and now they are wondering where they are at.

Mr. Bryan has descended to the level of the ordinary publisher, and is now traveling over the country by freight, securing advertisements for The Commoner. He has discovered that it takes money as well as pens and brains to make a newspaper.

RUSSIA STEPS IN TO RELIEVE CHINA.
Czar Will Oppose Any Further Punishment of Boxers Engaged in the Recent Riots.

Pekin, March 14.—The ministers held a meeting today and discussed the question of punishment of provincial officials who are regarded as responsible, primarily, for the boxer troubles and who are directly implicated in the massacre of missionaries and converts.

To the surprise of everybody the Russian representative appeared as an opponent to any further punishment of Chinese officers, no matter how guilty they may be. This is the first decided break in the concert of the powers.

The Russian representative got his orders from St. Petersburg. It is understood that he was told to aid China in every way in return for China's signature to an agreement in the whole northern part of the empire. The Chinese peace commissioners have attempted to minimize the appearance of this agreement in the hope it is thought of provoking discord among the ministers.

The Current History Club.

The Current History Club of the Court Street M. E. church will meet in the church parlor tomorrow evening, March 15. Miss Harriet Rogers will be the leader and a good program, including discussions of several timely topics, has been prepared. One of the most interesting numbers will be a short talk on "Industrial Characteristics of Our Civilization," by Rev. Walter A. Hall. For some time Rev. Hall has been deeply interested in the study of social economics, and it is along this line that he will speak tomorrow evening.

A Oshkosh gentleman, who recently returned from the east, says that Senator Spooner is regarded as the most available candidate for president in 1904. His name has been frequently mentioned of late in this connection, and this is another good reason why he should be returned to the senate. Wisconsin has occasion to be proud of Senator Spooner. He has been an honor to the state, and will honor the nation as its chief executive, if elevated to that responsible position.

Where She Saved.

It happened at the ball.

"There goes unfortunate Mrs. Johnson," she remarked.

"Why do you speak of her as unfortunate?" he asked.

"Her husband has suffered some financial reverses recently," she explained. "Only yesterday she told me they were so poor it was a question of having something to wear or something to eat."

He looked at the subject of this comment somewhat critically before replying.

"I would infer from her costume," he said at last, "that she is not stinting herself gastronomically." — Chicago Post.

ANOTHER CUSTOMER LOST.

The grocer thought the old man had come to make a kick about some purchase, but he hadn't, although he looked like a kicker. What he had come to say was:

"I see washboards outdoors marked at 'leven cents."

"Yes, sir."

"I'll give you ten and a half."

"Couldn't do it."

"Ten and three-quarters."

"Non."

"Then you go to grass, and I'll go across the street and buy ten dozen shirt buttons for a quarter."

They Can't Help It.

"It seems to me," said the lovely Mrs. Kalippe, "that society isn't what it was when I began going out."

"No," her gentle friend replied, "I suppose it isn't. But, then, you must remember that nearly everything else has changed along with society during the past 40 or 50 years." — Chicago Times-Herald.

A Mere Guess.

"Pa," Little Georgie asked, "who was this Lillith that the artists are always making pictures of?"

"I dunno," the old gentleman replied. "I've never looked into the subject; but, judging from the pictures, I should say she must have been the original lady snake charmer." — Chicago Times-Herald.

A Champion.

Higgins—So you think that fellow is a prizefighter? He doesn't look like one to me. He has no muscular development, and he is undersized and underweight.

Wiggins—I know, but you just ought to hear him talk! — Boston Transcript.

Inherited the Graft.

"How does it happen," asked the hippopotamus, with some envy, "that nature has favored you with such a long neck?"

"I suppose," responded the giraffe loftily, "my original ancestor must have had a pull." — Chicago Tribune.

GEORGE SIMS DIES
AT THE AGE OF 96

ONE OF ROCK COUNTY'S PIONEERS DEAD AT AFTON.

He Was Born When Thomas Jefferson Was President of the United States—Funeral Will Be Held Saturday Morning at 10 O'clock—Relatives Have Been Sent For.

George Sims is dead! Suddenly came the summons which came at 7:30 o'clock last evening to the oldest resident of the town of Rock. Mr. Sims had just partaken of a hearty supper and was sitting in his favorite arm chair when his head tipped back; he gasped once or twice and was dead.

His health the past winter had been very good, but two weeks ago he was taken with heart trouble and this was what caused his death.

George Sims was born in the state of Connecticut, Nov. 28, 1804, and was, therefore, 86 years, 3 months and 20 days old at the time of his death. At any early age he moved to New York state where he resided for several years and where he was married in 1827 to Hannah Cross who preceded him to the spirit land ten years ago.

Early in the '60s Mr. Sims came west and located at first in Minneapolis, but later came to Wisconsin and settled in Afton where he engaged in the merchantile business and farming, and where he has since resided.

In 1871, Mr. Sims sold his property to R. S. Waite and devoted his time and attention to his other business interests, being the possessor of considerable real estate, both in farm lands and village property.

In 1894 a disastrous fire swept away all of the buildings on his home farm and he soon after disposed of his property to L. H. Miller, reserving only a village lot, whereon he erected the home in which he has since resided with his daughter, Mrs. Pamela S. Treat. Mr. Sims was the father of six children—one daughter and five sons.

Two sons have preceded him in death while those yet living are Charles F. Sims, of Grand Forks, N. D., who visited his father only two weeks ago; E. W. Sims of Barstow, Ind. Ter.; and L. G. Sims of Roscoe, S. D. The widowed daughter, Mrs. Treat, has made her home with her father and was with him when the sad end came on Wednesday evening.

One begins to realize the remarkable age to which Mr. Sims has attained when it is remembered that when he was born Thomas Jefferson was president of the United States; that he was a lad eight years of age when the war of 1812 began and a young man of thirty-three when Victoria was crowned queen of England.

The span of his life covered all of the greatest inventions of history and he had been permitted to see the nation of which he was a citizen grow from the seventeen states of 1804 to the forty-five states of 1901. The sons have been notified of their father's death by telegraph. The funeral will be held on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

WILD FIRE PANIC
IN TENEMENT HOUSE

Three Persons Killed and Three Very Seriously Injured in a Fire at Brooklyn, N. Y., Today.

New York, March 14.—Pinned in a blazing tenement in Brooklyn three persons were killed, one by being burned and two by jumping at an early hour this morning.

The dead are Mrs. Mary Madden, seventy; Mrs. Mary Rontlo, thirty-five and George Rontlo, twelve. Three were very seriously injured: May Bess, Farrell Murray and Lena Marshall. The tenement was a double decker in which twenty families lived and was a death trap. The fire started on a baker shop on the first floor while the tenements were asleep and a wild panic ensued. The firemen rescued many from window ledges and from fire escapes on the upper floors.

Alexander the Great.

Samuel West's horse, "Alexander the Great," attracted quite a crowd at the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul passenger station this morning. F. A. Bingham, manager for Prof. Oscar Gleason, was taking him from Juda to Milwaukee, where Prof. Gleason will tame him this evening. People anxious to see this wonderful horse, which was claimed to be a man eater, were charged ten cents a head. He had enough fastenings on him to hold an elephant, and the spectators were warned to keep away from him. People living at Juda claim the horse is not nearly as bad as he is painted.

He is seventeen years old, and one man said he had been in his stall a hundred times, and had never had any trouble with him. It looks like Prof. Gleason would have an easy job of taming him.

MISS MAUDE GONNE
STRIKING IN STYLEPLAYS ENGLISH GOVERNMENT
WITH A SILVER TONGUE.

Ireland, She Says, is a Dying Nation, Dying Under British Rule—Eulogy of the Heroic Boer Farmers—Details of the Opera House Meeting Last Night.

Miss Maude Gonne, the famous Irish advocate of revolution, who has spoken to packed houses in many of the large cities of the United States, and Capt. McBride of the Irish regiment which has done such valiant service for the Boers in their struggle against England, spoke to a very small audience at the Myers Grand last evening.

The noted speakers appeared under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. Dr. M. A. Cunningham was chairman of the meeting and he, and his wife and Mrs. J. B. Day occupied seats on the stage.

Naturally the interest centered around Miss Gonne who for the past three years has been urging the Irish not to enlist in the English army and to seize the present opportunity to rise in revolution.

Miss Gonne is picturesque in appearance and her striking style is heightened by her manner of dress. Last evening she wore a decollete gown of black velvet, which clung closely to her tall, lithe form and swept the floor in graceful folds.

Her reddish gold hair was arranged loosely at the nape of her neck and great curls escaped from the knot forming a bright frame for her fair face. Her voice is vibrant and earnest, but she is far more impressive in personal conversation than on the lecture platform. She uses her manuscript and unless she gives it her close attention she speaks with hesitation. This need of notes is scarcely in harmony with one's idea of a revolutionary leader fired with zeal and power.

Miss Florence Hayford and Adam P. Brown, both of this city, are among those to whom the Wisconsin license law is distasteful and yesterday they went to Rockford, Ill., where they were quietly married. Their many friends will extend congratulations.

Mrs. Charles H. Stoller went to Chicago this morning to remain with her son. Her husband will return home this evening important business affairs requiring his attention. In a letter written yesterday Mr. Stoller said that his son was resting quite easily and that the family need not worry. The young man will remain in St. Luke's hospital until it is quite safe for him to be brought home.

She holds that Ireland today is in the position of a dying nation; she is dying from English rule. England is successfully carrying on her policy of extermination; quietly, noiselessly, surely and without scandal. Cleverly calculated taxes, commercial arrangements and land laws are the means employed with the result that in Victoria's reign the population of Ireland has been reduced from eight and three quarter millions to four millions three hundred thousand, of which number one million one hundred thousand are loyalists, traitors to Ireland.

Emigration is continuing, an average of fifty thousand emigrants leaving Ireland every year.

Most of the emigrants are nationalists for it is upon them that the English press most heavily. If this rate of emigration continues in fifty years the population of Ireland will be less than two millions and the traitors will be in the majority.

Ireland has spent thirty years in parliamentary agitation and all the while the extermination of her people is being carried on systematically. Orators have persuaded the people of the futility of revolutionary efforts and it was a revelation to find that 10,000 Boer farmers have been a match for 200,000 English soldiers. On the verge of destruction Ireland has awakened from its "false" dream of freedom gained by talk in parliament. No people ever yet won their freedom without sacrifice and bloodshed. If liberty is worth having it is worth fighting for.

Miss Gonne closed her lecture with a bitter denunciation of the British Empire, calling it the symbol of the world's wickedness, sin and crime.

She eulogized the Boers as the heroic Dutch farmers who are leading the way and urged the need of the Irish to rise in armed might and avenge the wrongs not only of their own nation but England's crimes against humanity.

A quartet consisting of Mrs. Oscar Poyer, Miss Margaret Joyce, William Garbutt and D. D. Bennett, sang Thomas Moore's "Isle of Beauty," very sweetly. Miss Marie McClellan played the piano accompaniment.

Capt. McBride, and Irishman with a rich brogue, told the history of the organization of the Irish regiment. He gave a very complete account of its services in the Boer war, with many instances of the heroism of the regiment and of individual Irish soldiers.

He argued that if Irishmen could do so much in South Africa there would be no opposing them if they were battling for their own freedom in Ireland.

The audience was an enthusiastic one and both speakers were interrupted by frequent applause. The quartet closed the evening by singing "The Cuckoo in the Poplar Tree," by MacFarren.

The ladies of L. O. T. M. to the number of fifteen, perpetrated a surprise on Mrs. Minnie McNight, on the anniversary of her birthday last Tuesday evening.

They did not go empty handed, but were well supplied with good things to eat. The evening was pleasantly spent, and before departing, they left as a pleasant reminder a beautiful lodge pin.

TOLD TO SAVE CHINESE

Secretary Hay Gives Rockhill Orders.

RUSSIAN MINISTER TALKS.

He Makes Clear the Position of Russia in Regard to Her Interests in Manchuria—Why the Russian Troops Stay in That Land.

Washington, D. C., March 14.—Further indiscriminate execution of Chinese will not be countenanced by the United States. Moderation not only in demands but in the infliction of punishment by the Chinese authorities is now sought by President McKinley and Secretary of State Hay. Special Commissioner Rockhill having cabled the state department for specific instructions in the matter of the punishment of provincial officials, whose heads are sought by the German and other diplomatic representatives, Secretary Hay wired him this afternoon that the president desired him to use his influence in behalf of moderate punishment. Mr. Rockhill will not demand any further executions, but will leave to the Chinese authorities the infliction of such penalties as they may see fit to impose upon officials and persons charged with complicity in the anti-foreign outrages.

To Prevent Rupture of Powers. The attitude of the United States is similar to that of Russia. The report published this afternoon that the Russian minister had broken the concert by his refusal to join in demands for further punishment is not believed either at the state department or the Russian embassy. Mr. Rockhill will also object to the proposal for additional executions, but this objection will not, it is believed, result in a rupture. The authorities propose to continue their efforts to preserve the concert.

Cassini Talks of Manchuria. The Russian ambassador, Count Cassini, talked during the day concerning the reiterated reports as to Russia's designs on Manchuria. He said he was not authorized to make any official declaration on the part of his government, but he gave his individual views. He called attention to the Chinese invasion of Russian territory last summer and said:

"There is a great stretch of border between the two empires, about 8,000 kilometers in length, and over the Manchurian border the Chinese forces poured, committing depredations and threatening Russian interests. This invasion was of such a character that Russia would have been justified then and there in declaring war against China and taking Manchuria. Such a course would have been justified by every principle of international law, and the right of Russia in this respect could not have been doubted by any other nation. If Russia had been disposed to exercise this undoubted right she had the military force on the ground ready to execute it. But Russia did not at that time take Manchuria, and in that very fact is the best answer to the present reports of Russia's purposes to absorb Manchuria. If she did not choose to take Manchuria when the opportunity was open and clear, why should there be any step in that direction now?"

"Why are Russian troops in Manchuria?" is frequently asked. Why are German troops, British troops, American troops and other troops in Pekin? There seems to be no surprise about this latter condition, and yet it is exactly parallel to the presence of Russian troops in Manchuria. In each case depredations were being committed, foreign interests were in jeopardy and each nation sent its troops to give due protection to the lives and property of its people and to prevent the recurrence of disorder. In Manchuria the Russian civil engineers at one time were driven away from work along the Trans-Siberian railway, with its spurs southward to Port Arthur and eastward to Vladivostok. It was necessary to give adequate protection to these engineers and to the railway as well. There was not the slightest question as to the right of Russia to construct the line across Chinese territory, and with this authority came the necessity of protecting the line and the interests connected with it."

THE TREATY IS ABRIDGED.

The Clayton-Bulwer Pact Broken by Great Britain.

Washington, March 13.—The president is still poring over the reply from Great Britain. It was explained to him from Hay's view, and the question is still unsettled as to what, if any, step shall be taken to re-open negotiations.

There is good authority, however, for the statement that Secretary Hay will be asked to make representations to the British foreign office to the effect that even if the Clayton-Bulwer treaty is not void, it is voidable by reason of its violation in several instances by Great Britain. Secretary Hay, if the president determines upon this line of action, will thus be forced back to the position held by his predecessors Frelinghuysen and Sherman.

In view of probable negotiations to prove that Great Britain has violated the Clayton-Bulwer treaty in such a manner as to make it voidable, it will be of interest to recall the most flagrant case of violation.

At the date of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty there was little settlement of British subjects in Belize on the Central American coast which had no form of government. In 1859 Great Britain concluded a treaty with Guatemala which Great Britain called "Her Britannic Majesty's settlement in the Bay of Honduras." In 1862, during the civil war, Great Britain declared her alleged possessions "a colony of the British crown."

This has been held by nearly every American statesman to have been a clear violation of that clause of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty which says that neither the United States nor Great Britain shall occupy or fortify or colonize or assume to acquire any dominion over Nicaragua, Costa Rica, the Mosquito coast or any other part of Central America.

It is thought now that if the United States demonstrates forcibly to Great Britain her violation of the treaty, it will cut from under the British foreign office any possible ground for friction when congress at its next session denounces the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and wipes it off the records.
